

Gear up for the game

Show you've got school spirit with new batch of tailgating goodies

Think you've got every possible tailgate contraption ever made? Think again. Here's a roundup of some of the coolest game-day gear on the Web. And since Georgia's fall weather is so unpredictable, we've found items suitable for both balmy afternoons and frigid evenings. Happy surfing.

— Paige Dampf, for the Journal-Constitution

Shoes

Make sure you're color-coordinated from head to toe. A pair of crimson-and-cream Asics will set Morehouse fans back $52.90 for the X-Caliber GT model at www.zappos.com.

Kids' folding chairs

Now the little ones can enjoy this tailgate staple. Many NCAA Division I teams are available. Recommended for ages 2 to 6. $21.99 at www.sportsunlimitedinc.com under Collectibles/Memorabilia.

Car Cozy: 12-volt heating blanket

Plug this heating blanket into the cigarette lighter, and you'll be able to enjoy tailgating on even the coldest November day. The 42-by-58-inch fleece blanket is also great for road trips, and the cord is 8 feet long. Available for $39.95 at the American Tailgater Company, www.americantailgater.com.

Logo Hawaiian shirt

Luau and football, what a great combination! It's also a funky addition to any Hawaiian shirt collection. Many NCAA teams are represented. Available for $62.50 at www.reyns.com.

Traveler's Club luggage, 14" radio cooler

Music and cold beer in one package — that works for most tailgaters. The sides also fold out to serve as trays. Also available in blue/black and yellow/black. $39.99 at ebags.com.

